A place where a little bit of TERRY PRATCHETT'S DISCWORLD is real enough to touch.

Based in Somerset

The Cunning Artificer's Discworld
Emporium

has been creating little bits of Discworld for close to twenty years.

The Hogfather Film has been one of the most exciting developments to happen in that time.

Jean Vadim, Rod Brown, and their team in the Mob film company worked hard to bring Discworld to life, and have proved that it can be done.

Undoubtedly there will be more films, but this is the first 'Real' Discworld Film, and the care, detail, and vision, that this film has is now a bench-mark for all that follow.

It is therefore with thanks to them that we can offer you a replica of Susan's Cloak Pin as seen in the film.

Other Hogfather delights you may wish to consider.

The Illustrated Hogfather Screenplay.

The lavishly illustrated book of the film, featuring the complete screenplay together with behind-the-scenes photographs and inside information on the making of the film.

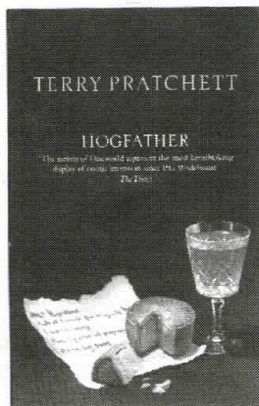

The film, as you may know, features a promising newcomer to the screen, a certain Terry Pratchett, in a cameo role as the Toymaker. It is a little known fact that, just prior to filming, Terry gave the Toymaker a name: Joshua Isme.

And the shop he owns is called, what else, 'Toys Is Me'. Among the props that decorate the shelves of his shop are boxes wrapped in brown paper and tied with trade labels from Toys Is Me, and we are happy to include, with every Illustrated Screenplay purchased from us, a free pack of 5 of these Toys Is Me trade labels.

£26.75 including UK postage

The 'New' Edition of the book itself.

A slightly larger format, with a new cover design.

We can't match Amazon on price, but we do offer a rather splendid FREE 35mm button badge that we have produced for the occasion.

£7.99 plus postage

The Dibbler Pie

Not really from the film, but somehow pertinent.

A truly dreadful object.

A solid, heavy, rendition of one of Mr Dibbler's horrendous pork (well more or less porcine) pies.

Hand painted, each one is a little work of art showing in excruciating detail a famous piece of Ankh-Morpork cuisine.

Great as a paper weight, or as a reason for being a vegetarian.

3 inches in diameter, 1½ inches tall

Price: £10.00 + p/p
